Johnson & Johnson - The Supreme Court rejected an appeal from Johnson & Johnson seeking to undo a $2.1 billion damages award against it over allegations that asbestos in its talc powder products, including baby powder, caused women to develop ovarian cancer. The top court announced in an order with no noted dissents that it will not hear the case. Justices Samuel Alito and Brett Kavanaugh recused themselves from consideration of the case, according to the order. (Source: www.cnbc.com)

AMC - AMC has pivoted back to an offensive strategy on a bet that its retail investors will stick with the company long enough for it to recoup its pandemic losses. Since the January stock surge, some retail investors have used social media to attack anyone who shares negative opinions of AMC. (Source: www.cnbc.com)

Covid-19 Shot - The NIH said it started a trial looking at what happens when an adult who is fully vaccinated with one type of Covid vaccine, like Pfizer's, is boosted with a different shot about three to four months later. The trial will include about 150 adults who have been fully vaccinated with the Johnson & Johnson, Moderna or Pfizer Covid vaccines, according to the NIH. Federal health officials said people who have not yet received an authorized vaccine are also eligible to enroll in the trial in a separate group. (Source: www.cnbc.com)
